

WE NOMINATE

Philip Khuri Hitti, Lebanese-born Princetonian and probably the top authority in the United States on Moslem culture, who recently returned to this country from the Near East and expressed little surprise about the chaos generated by the sudden fall of Iraq. It is the contention of the 72-year-old scholar-teacher, retired chairman of Princeton University's Department of Oriental Studies and founder of its Program in Near Eastern Studies, that the West, and notably America, is in danger of losing the entire Near East unless changes are made in basic policies in the simmering Mediterranean Basin.

While emphasizing that Islam has closer cultural connections with the West than it does with the Soviet Union, Hitti—understandably pro-Arab in his point of view—points out that the U.S. has made major errors in wooing Islamic nations. In addition to giving preferential treatment to the relatively new entity of Israel, the U.S., according to Hitti, has overplayed the threat of Russia to the Arabs and, by insisting on definite commitments to the West, has permitted Russia and Nasser's United Republic to pose as the protectors of the Arab world.

The deterioration of America's position in the East perturbs Hitti, a naturalized American citizen since 1920 and one of the first American educators to portray the Near East as an area of vital concern to the U. S. An adviser to the Arab States at the organization of the United Nations in 1945, and the recipient of the highest civilian decorations of the Lebanese and Syrian governments, Hitti has done more than any living

American to help students prepare for Near Eastern service in the fields of government, education and business.

Born of peasant stock in the hillside town of Shimalan, Hitti enjoys recalling that a slow-healing fracture of his arm led his family to decide: "Let's give him an education, since he can't do anything else." He attended an American missionary school, earned his first degree at the American University in Beirut and initially came to the U.S. in 1913 as a representative to a world students' conference. He remained to take his doctorate at Columbia and in 1926, following six years of teaching in Lebanon, joined the Princeton Faculty.

Upon retirement in 1954, Hitti had written some of the outstanding works ever published in his sphere of special interest, including "History of the Arabs" and "History of Syria Including Lebanon and Palestine." One of his favorite pastimes had been tracking down the origins of words. For instance, Hitti holds that his pet sport, tennis, derives not from the French word tenez but from the Arab Tinnis, the town that manufactured the cloth for the balls which were used in the game the Crusaders found the Arabs playing with their rahaahs—the palms of their hands—from whence came the word racket.

For constantly seeking to strengthen the bonds linking East and West; for his pioneering efforts in higher education; for looking to the day when understanding statesmanship will dispense with the need for creating and maintaining momentary balances of power; he is TOWN TOPICS' nominee for 1955, Kreis currently has his Princeton entry in the Tri-County Baseball League rattling along at a 9-0-0 pace. (See page 21 for further details.)

Raymond F. Male, 76 Cedar Lane, now in his seventh month as an unalarmed but widely-read columnist for Princeton's newspapers. Initiating his weekly "Report from the Mayor" (see page 26) with the aim of taking his readers behind the scenes in Borough Hill for an informal "chat," able journalist Male continues to turn out interesting comments even in the "off-season," has never missed a deadline despite flying business trips to such distant spots as Florida and the Brussels World Fair.

ROUND-UP

EXPECTANCE: Commuters and other users of the Pennsylvania Railroad who drive to Princeton Junction were told this week that the new policy of paid parking was scheduled to go into effect this Thursday . . . regulations governing time and charges for use of meters and the automatic gate area will be enforced, the PRR declared . . . remaining to be seen was the degree to which drivers will park their cars outside the area, on roads leading to the station.

Looking for a better position in the now-recognized international "space race" for some time, Applied Science Corporation of Princeton (ASCO) got at least a toe hold this past week in the form of three contracts totaling $158,570 . . . an indication of the importance of the "prime government contract" was evident, since they were awarded by the Army Ballistic Missile Agency (Huntsville, Ala.), the Army Missile Development Center (White Sands, N.M.) and the Air Development Center (Holloman Air Force Base, N.M.) . . . research and development of statistical telemetering equipment will form the basis of the contract work, to be supervised by Arthur S. Westcott and Dr. Alfred G. Matz . . . Another front, Educational Testing Service reported this week it probably will move the bulk of its Nassau Street opera-

EXPANSION: The developers of Kendall Park, fast-growing community eight miles east of Princeton off Route 27, confirmed the fact this week that a sizeable portion of land along the south side of the old Lincoln Highway is being cleared and leveled as the site of Kendall Park Shopping Center . . . top soil from the work is being used in landscaping the subdivision's newest sections of homes and plans concerning the shopping center's size and construction schedule will be announced in several months . . . a revised directory of Mercer County's mounting number of industrial research facilities soon will be published by the Mercer County Industrial Commission "because of a steady influx of new firms into Mercer County, and also an expansion of research activities in existing industrial firms since 1955," date of the last directory . . . commenting on the forthcoming compilation, Freeholder Frank J. Black said: "Mercer County, with its surrounding areas, is advancing rapidly as an important center of research. Our standing in this vital field is gaining widespread attention among industry and government. This is a wholesome trend, since this broadens the base of our economy and promotes greater stability of employment and business activities."

EXCERPTS: Weather permitting, the Princeton Lions Club's postponed Donkeyball contest with members of the Borough and Township police forces will be held at 8 this Thursday at Princeton High School . . . groundbreaking ceremonies with experienced shovel wielder Gov. Robert B. Meyner presiding, have been held near Cranbury for the new $3.5 million Carter Products Inc. plant (to house manufacturing, shipping and warehouse facilities of Corder and Wallace Laboratories, its pharmaceutical division) . . . A stone base has been laid for the Borough's parking lot on the former Public Service property on Witherspoon Street and completion of the project is expected sometime after mid-August . . . this summer's weather has been peculiar enough to prompt many popular weather poems (see one of them in box on page 8), but TOWN TOPICS is still looking for four-line contributions from Princeton's amateur lyricists, anonymous or recognized.

LEBANON IN THE NEWS

Princeton Reacts. Like the rest of the nation, Princeton talked about Lebanon this week, wondering whether President Eisenhower's action in sending troops to the Near Eastern country would stabilize the situation, or ignite the fuse of war.

The military action came close to two Princeton homes (see photos, this page). Mrs. Edward J. Novak had expected that her son, Ronald, aboard the amphibious force flagship USS Taconic, would be home soon. The last letter she had from him came from Greece early in July and indicated that his ship might be returning to United States waters. Seaman Novak, 21, is a graduate of Princeton High School.

Mrs. Harold Heacock, whose Marine Corps son, Jun, took part in the amphibious operation, felt at first that the move had been launched with too much haste.

"I disliked it at first," she said, "because I felt the action should have come after discussion in the UN, but, when I saw how much talk there is in the UN I decided that President Eisenhower had probably been right."

Corporal Heacock, 29, a graduate of Princeton High School, joined the Marine Corps on August 24, 1956.

Man in the Street. According to a survey made by Princeton Research Service 24 hours after the announcement of the Marines' landing, 73 percent of the people interviewed approve President Eisenhower's action. Disapproval was expressed by 21 percent and 6 percent had no opinion. Interviewers questioned 136 persons.

In Washington, Sen. H. Alexander Smith, Rep., a resident of Princeton, said he considered the move to be a stabilizing action

THEY'RE IN LEBANON: Seaman Ronald E. Novak, USN (left), son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Novak, 232 Washington Road, and Cpl. Juan Heacock, USMC, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Heacock, Laurel Avenue, Kingston, are among the American sailors and Marines participating in United States operations in Lebanon. that would last only until the United Nations was in a position to move in.

Representative Frank Thompson, Jr., Dem., of New Jersey's fourth Congressional district, said, "We can get out without great military conflict. We must get out as soon as possible and recognize the fact that Nasser is there and should be recognized as a positive, if unstable, force. The area needs massive economic assistance. Healthy, educated and well-fed people won't succumb to the Soviet."

KIDS LAUGH AT RAIN

Spirits Undampened. Arriving in Princeton from New York City on Tuesday, a cloudy and rain-occasional day here, 29 underprivileged youngsters laughed at the inclement weather and expressed only joy at the start of a two-week (or longer) vacation.

The visiting youngsters will stay with 17 different Princeton families, some of them returning to stay with the same family for the third consecutive summer.

Sponsored by the Princeton chapter of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, in cooperation with the New York Herald Tribune Fresh Air Fund, the program is designed to remove the children from their metropolitan environment for at least half a month.

Youngsters who would otherwise get no vacation at all are afforded an opportunity to swim, play games, hike in the country and mix with some of their more fortunate contemporaries.

Princetonians who welcomed guests Tuesday were Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Cook, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Hoisington, Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin McMahon, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Van Wegen, Rev. and Mrs. James Middleton, Mr. and Mrs. Allen Norris, Mr. and Mrs. Philip Duschens, Mrs. Maurice Smith, Mrs. Ruth Hopkins, Mr. and Mrs. John Borden, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Bartly Bailey, Mr. and Mrs. Chelmers Dale, Mrs. Joan Doyle, Mr. and Mrs. George Warfield, Mr. and Mrs. Steve Shay and Mr. and Mrs. John Lesley.

BOROUGH COURT ACTION

Three Are Fined. Bruno J. DiDonato, 18, 81 Leigh Avenue, was fined $30 in Borough Court this week by Magistrate Theodore Tams, Jr., for failing to yield the right of way to a pedestrian at the intersection of Nassau and Witherspoon Streets.

Aldo Busacca, 37, 19 Maple Street, paid $20 for failing to yield the right of way to another vehicle at an intersection. In the only other case before the court, Mrs. Alice Jackson, R.D. 1, Cranbury, was fined $38 for overlooking five parking violations. The tickets would have totaled $10 had they been paid on time. The court also took notice that John S. Robinson, 38, 46 Stanworth Lane, had received a one-month license revocation following his third speeding violation.

TOWNSHIP COURT ACTION

Two Fined. A pair of drivers paid $15 each Tuesday night when they appeared before Magistrate Louis R. Gerber for traffic violations. Mrs. Whitney Coletti, 55, Rosedale Road, was charged with going through a "stop" sign, W. F. Cox, 36, 323 Witherspoon Street, was guilty of driving a truck on a restricted street.

PARK THE CAR BUT SAVE THE TREE: Borough officials toured much of the Nassau Street area between Chestnut and Maple Streets last week to ascertain what possibilities exist for more municipally-controlled off-street parking. Here, on the Joseph G. Skirm property at 253 Nassau, one of the questions was whether a large tree could be saved without major reduction in parking stalls—IF the borough buys the lot. (At mid-week, no decision.) On tour were Henry W. Kenarney, assistant borough engineer; John F. McCarthy, Jr., borough attorney; Councilman Alfred E. Sorenson; Mayor Raymond F. Maie; and Council President Dan D. Coyle. (Town Topics Photo by Fred Porter)

POSTAL RATE CHANGES DIE

No Shortage of Stamps Expected. The Post Office expects no trouble in making the transition to the new postage rates on August 1. There will be plenty of new stamps and post cards on hand according to Postmaster Charles F. Murray. The Post Office Department has for the past few weeks been issuing and distributing large additional supplies of the regular 4 cents stamp bearing the likeness of Abraham Lincoln.

The Lincoln stamp will meet the new first-class letter rate of 4 cents an ounce. In addition, issues of special stamps and commemorative stamps will be available at the post office in 4-cent denominations.

Ab didn't add, "is this drip necessary?" but it was a question being asked by a lot of damp Princetonians as July continued to move for a late normal in precipitation totals. With a week to go, close to six inches were on record, a trend that would double average July rainfall if it continued.

What's worse, the Weather Man looks for a return to higher temperatures and humidity, at least through Friday. When last seen, he had gone shopping for another drop the thermometer downward in such welcome fashion word the weekend. "If I can't find it by Friday," he said, "the only place to spend the week-end will be in the deep freeze."

the great South American liberator, will be on sale here July 25 in 4 cent and 8 cent denominations. (The 8 cent rate is for international mail.)

Air Mail Also Goes Up. Adequate supplies also will be on hand in other stamps, cards and envelopes. Domestic air mail will go up from 6 cents to 7 cents, while post cards will now require 3 cents instead of 2 cents. Air mail postal cards will cost 5 cents, not 4 cents, and 4 cent and 7 cent stamped envelopes must, after August 1, be used in place of the 3 cent and 6 cent varieties.

"Picture" post cards will require 3 cents for surface and 5 cents for air transportation. Ample supplies of 3 cents and 5 cents stamps are being received to meet anticipated demand.

Postmaster Murray hastened to add that old supplies of 3 cent and 6 cent stamps, 2 cent and

BUSY BEHIND THE SCENES: The show must go on, as every devotee of the theatre knows, and these Princeton teen-agers are making it possible for the University Players' shows to go on this summer. They are just a few of the 25 volunteer "Jupes" who receive credit where credit is due in a story below in News of the Theatres. Pictured are (left to right) Anne Waldren with puppy "Cats," Alice Bourgain, Mike Kihn, Glennie Drury and Jo Ann McKenna. Miss Bourgain, incidentally, is not a "Jupe," but she is an ardent backstage worker—and, besides, she looked too photogenic for TOWN TOPICS' cameraman to exclude. News Of The THEATRES

(A review of "The Burnt Flower Bed," current offering of the University Players, appears on page 10.)

BIG YEAR FOR "JUPES"

They Keep Players Playing. "I wish 'Charlie' was here for the pictures. 'Charlie' is a she. Her real name is Charlotte Johnson, but she can't stand Charlotte so you'd better refer to her as 'Charlie' in your story. Otherwise, she probably won't do any more work for us. And we need her designing ability, especially in the hat department. Did you see the mad hat she created for 'The Matchmaker'?"

So rattled Bart Auerbach, the University Players' ubiquitous business manager, as he raced around Murray Theatre lining up "Jupes" for Town Topics' reporter—a photographer team, "Jupes," for those not in the know, are the Junior University Players, young Princetonians who help the summer stage group in many ways and hope someday to become Players themselves. Auerbach spoke enthusiastically about the work of these teen-agers as he mustered them from every corner of the theatre.

"The 'Jupes' perform all kinds of functions for us," the business manager explained. "One of their biggest and most important jobs is the collection of props. They also help construct sets, serve as ushers, distribute posters, keep up the maintenance of the theatre, help in the box office, and as in the case of 'Charlie,' do some fine costuming."

Auerbach said 1958 has been a big year for the "Jupes"—perhaps the best in the Players' history—since 25 of them (all unpaid volunteers) have been on hand most of the time. "Sustaining their interest is a major problem," he admitted, "but this year's crop is a good one and nearly everyone has stuck with us. It's terrific!"

In addition to Miss Johnson, the business manager cited Anne Waldren for her costuming efforts and noted that Susan Drury holds the vital post of "Jupes-in-charge of properties. Jinx Prather has the responsibility of head "Jupes" and, by way of reward for her tireless aid, has been given small parts in various Players' productions. One of the Players' current leading ladies, Kathy Kelly, gained much of her theatrical training as a "Jupe."

"All of the volunteers, ranging up from 14 in age, are really quite good—in fact, some of them are excellent," Auerbach observed. "They're a great help and give the rest of us an opportunity to take care of the million and one things that must be accomplished each day around a theatre. Their energy has paid off. For The Matchmaker, we had three straight sellout nights for the first time since 1953."

PLAYERS' NEXT

Russell Crouse Play is Scheduled. Following this week's offering of "The Burnt Flower Bed," the University Players will present "The Great Sebastians," by Russell Crouse and Howard Lindsay.

The play originally had a long and successful New York run at the ANTA Theatre with Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontanne in 1956. In the forthcoming Players' production, Joseph Bird and Francine Toll will appear in the leading roles.

"The Great Sebastians" concerns a pair of married leaders who happen to be in Prague on the eve—Continued on Page 6 of the Communist take-over in Czechoslovakia. At the high point of the story, they use the biggest trick in their bag to communicate with one another when their lives hang in the balance.

Tickets are on sale at Murray Theatre, tel. WA 4-3539, curtain time is 8:30 p.m., Tuesday through Saturday.

THE PLAYHOUSE

Indiscreet (July 24-26) features a thin story which slows down perceptibly now and then, but—despite these obvious deficiencies—the film is bound to do to the box office what the summer sun is doing to local thermometers. Ingrid Bergman and Cary Grant are the headliners, so it matters little that the contrived plot, such as it is, concerns a bored actress, an American banker and their romantic entanglements in London. The co-stars, handsomely presented in Technicolor, represents a sure-fire cinema combination.

Actually, the screenplay by clever craftsman Norman Krasna (who lifted it from his own stage play, "Kind Sir") contains keen and witty dialogue and succeeds in maintaining a lively pace and a sprightly touch almost all the way. It is typical Krasna fare, an enjoyable comedy that remains gay and lighthearted from start to finish.

The big appeal of "Indiscreet," of course, is aimed at the feminine element, and especially the teen-age share of that element, but there are laughs aplenty—miss Bergman—for the male animal. Those occasional showdowns in story shouldn't bother anyone, since the pact is quickly regulated in each instance and the overall impression is one of a light, lively and swiftly-flowing continuity.

This Happy Feeling (July 27-29) sounds like a gooey sequel to "Tammy," Debbie Reynolds' box-office success of last summer, but it is really a much better picture, even though the title song isn't the Academy Award-winner that Miss Reynolds' "Tammy" turned out to be. The star of this new light, romantic comedy is as pretty and refreshing as ever and John Saxon is a handsome, promising newcomer, but those deserving credit for the film's generally good time are Curt Jurgens, Alexis Smith, Mary Astor, Estelle Winwood and a remarkably talented sex gull.

Bathed in bright Eastman color and enhanced by CinemaScope, "This Happy Feeling"—fine tonic for a summer's afternoon or evening—deals none-too-seriously with an ill-starred love affair between Miss Reynolds and a reformed Broadway idol (Jurgens), who comes to his senses only after being needed effectively by a longtime girl friend (Miss Smith) and an alcoholic housekeeper (Miss Winwood). Saxon finally catches Miss Reynolds, but not before he and his mother (Miss Astor) have experienced some amusingly trying moments.

Contrived situations and pure slapstick are used in large doses to keep the comedy moving along. However, it's all in fun—in the usual spirit of F. Hugh Herbert, on whose stage effort ("For Love or Money") the screenplay is based—and it is aimed particularly at a young audience (75 percent of the whole motion picture audience in 1958).

A Time to Love and a Time to Die (July 30-August 2) apparently runs for two hours and 13 minutes in support of its lengthy title, but such waste of film about the waste of war isn't for essay. The tale is told long before the two-hour mark—in fact, its tentful outcome can be guessed very early in the game—and, as a result, the overall production, which breathes familiar air all the way through, grows more than a little tedious.

Taken directly from the World War II novel by Erich Remarque, whose "All Quiet on the Western Front" made a stirring movie about World War I some 30 years ago, this latest in a recent rash of love-in-war films fails to pack the wallop delivered by the author's earlier war story. Perhaps there is too much emphasis on the romance back home and not enough emphasis on the horrors of fighting up front. Perhaps CinemaScope and color are not as well suited to the expected starkness of war as good old black and white. Perhaps it's still pretty tough for Americans to believe that some of those Nazis they fought weren't such bad guys after all.

Just as "All Quiet" shot Lew Ayres to stardom, so "A Time" appears destined to launch a meteoric career for young John Gavin, Universal's much-publicized new lieutenant. Lilo Pulver adds a welcome change-of-face to the U.S. screen, while veterans Jack Mahoney, Don DeFore and Keenan Wynn afford solid performances in support. It's unfortunate that their sparkling work can't add more lustre to a somewhat tarnished tale.

WATCH TIME

No Winding. The idea of a watch that runs on batteries somehow conjures up the picture of a watch worn around the wrist and a couple of flashlight batteries strapped around the biceps. This is, of course, quite inaccurate. A watch, that runs on batteries looks just like any other watch, except that it's manufactured because somebody has figured out yet how to make batteries small enough for a woman's wristwatch.

The battery watch, available at Pékman's, 9 Witherspoon, comes from the little gnomes in the Hamilton watch factory. It uses a mercury wet-cell battery that lasts from 18 months to two years.

This battery sets up a magnetic field which the balance wheel of the watch passes through at the steady rate of five beats per second—18,000 an hour. Your watch can't gain, can't lose, doesn't need winding.

Hamilton has made the electric watch to be shock-resistant as well as wind-resistant and it's only $39.50, which isn't much considering all the energy you save from not having to wind it.

As you know if you've been watching the right television programs, Ronson now has a cigarette lighter that you can take to the moon. You can use it in New Jersey, too, of course; the moon idea is just to show you how long the lighter will work without re-filling.

It's a jet lighter and it works on gas, don't ask us what kind. Ronson calls it "Verastream" and you'll have to take their word for it. You can set the little flame for high, medium or low, depend-

Crying Towel?

It is, perhaps, an axiom on golf course and tennis court that if you play on a very hot day you are quite likely to get hot. You may even perspire, especially if you are playing against somebody with a sharper eye for a putt or a stronger muscle behind a serve.

With these little vexations in mind, some manufacturer has thoughtfully come up with a small terry-cloth towel that you carry around while you play golf, (2) tennis. The golfer's towel has a little chain on the corner so you can fasten it to your golf bag. It's white, tastefully printed with 19th-hole beer mugs, etc. Buy either at Stone's Linen Shop, 20 Nassau.

The tennis player's towel doesn't seem to have a chain, so far as we can tell. It does say, inevitably, "Tennis, anyone?" and it supports a grouping of racquets, balls and a net. Each towel is $1, so what can you lose? Only the game.

ling on whether you want to melt steel, cook a steak or light a cigarette; $14.95.

Coffee for All. At the Coffee Shop out at the Penns Neck traffic circle, you may now have breakfast, starting at 7 a.m. every day. The menu features hot fragrant coffee that will wake you up in no time, thick ham slices, bacon and eggs and of course the whole Kix-Six-Trix range of dry cereals. Why not have breakfast at the Coffee Shop the day you start on that vacation? No breakfast dishes to hinder your early start.

Tea for Two. Stone's Linen Shop is prepared for you, whether you travel or stay at home by your barbecue. For travelers, the Shop at 20 Nassau has a Coffee Chub. This is a little plastic zip bag that holds two sturdy plastic mugs, two spoons, two clear plastic containers for instant coffee or tea bags, and an electric unit that will bring water to almost instant boil as soon as you plug it in (110 volts, AC-DC).

Another plastic bag is shaped like an envelope, and looks like white linen. It holds hangers and detergent and something called wash 'n dry that you use to refresh your hands or face after a hot and dirty trip. Leaves your skin clean and pleasantly moist without getting it wet at all. Splendid gift for someone in a hospital?

Another kit holds hand lotion, wash 'n dry and Trav, a detergent for laundry. Stone's has many kits, fitted or unfitted.

For people who like their own backyard, the Linen Shop has barbecue cloths and aprons in linen, cotton and laminated cotton. One cloth in red and white stripes has a laminated surface that makes it easy to clean. Another, in plastic, looks just like a rough-textured cotton.

Red and white farm-yard checks, two inches wide, make a traditional picnic cloth in pure linen and there are bandannas cloths in red, green or blue and white.

For the cook, there is a natural linen apron, with bib, striped in red and blue, and a white apron with red-checked patch pockets.

Summer mats are mostly straw. Some thick straw hot-plate mats, square or round, would be good any time of the year. A fine, woven straw, almost like linen, has a straw applique: a good red lobster just waiting for the melted butter.

They Weat That-a-Way. Out west the hip is still the launching pad for guided missiles and with a new gun they have at Zinder's, even an easterner can shoot with a dead-eye aim. This here pistol has a swivel shot trick holster. Pull the gun handle down. The shootin' iron goes off automatically from your belt. Costs $4, at Zinder's hitchin' post on Nassau Street.

For only $3 you can have a smoking cap pistol with eight play bullets; for $5 you can get a rifle that ejects shells (38 with bandolier) and for $7 you can have a blond leather holster (genuine top-grain cow) with a belt and 18 bullets.

To get in condition for all this activity, invest in some barbells. —Continued on Page 8

END OF THE TRAIL: Sixteen young Princeton bicycle riders arrive back in town from a day-long trip to Kunkle's Grove in Pennington, sponsored by the Princeton's Benevolent Association, Local 130. Accompanied by Frank Maguire and Robert McAvonia of the Borough Police Department, they enjoyed athletics and refreshments before returning home. Making the trip were Bob Anderson, Dave Tessin, Jimmy Cramer, Jimmy Cunningham, George Markusen, Kerry and Marianne Klink, Catherine Kathleen and Michael Maguire, Doug Watson, Billy Bartelino, Madge Bell, Charlie Winthrop, Suzanne Strayer and Joe Petty. They are plastic, but so sturdy they have survived a 20-story drop 100 times. ("Did you have a hard day at the toy factory, dear?") "Yeah, I dropped those barbells, raced down 20 flights, picked 'em up, raced back up 20 flights, dropped those barbells."

You fill the bells with sand or water or both to achieve the desired weight. In the same package are matching dumbbells. The set, $5.98, is called "Powercrum" and it comes with a table of weights so you know just how much sand or water to put in.

For the very young or the middle-aged, Zinder's has some pleasant stuffed people, some of them with cloth coverings that can be autographed. One is a policeman, 30 inches long, with long, spindly legs and big eyes.

There's an elongated cat that looks almost like an owl. He measures two feet in length and has a wickedly striped underbelly. In addition, there's a clown, a little boy, a frontier marshall with striped pants, a sailor and a space man, each for $1.98.

Upright animals—not so floppy—are $1.98, too, and these will take an autograph pen. We liked an owl and a very professor. There are very small animals in this collection, too, about eight inches high, and these are $1 each.

Soon after you read this, Zinder's will have a unique live sandfish. It's a flat box about 18 inches long filled with something like vermiculite.

With it come shrubs and grass seed. Plant the seed, keep it moist and soon you'll have to get out the toy lawn-mower. There's a real live turtle who lives on a sort of volcano built in the middle of the box, giving the illusion of a giant monster tortoise crawling around a real mountain.

There are prehistoric animals, too, and they add to the illusion. No, they are not alive, they are plastic; you've got the live turtle, don't cry for tyrannosaurs.

thirties or extra amount of special effects stars, though it is certainly to please all Jerry Lewis fans, who may or may not be many in number hereabouts. Written especially for Jerry, producer as well as star of this particular outing, the VistaVision-Technicolor picture involves an ampt, shy, small-town bachelor and TV repairman who for years has been in love with a small-town girl (Marilyn Maxwell), now a glamorous Hollywood star. Aided by director, by Bacalloni, Ronald Gardiner and Hans Conried, Jerry romps through a handful of comedy routines, some bordering on the slapstick, some of the more subtle variety and still others a bit too familiar.

Also showing with Lewis is "Badman's Count-15," a routine western with action aplenty for lovers of cowboy sagas. The good guys are very good, the bad guys are terrible and there's lots of rough-and-tumble scenes before virtue emerges triumphant. Buster Crabbe plays Wyatt Earp, Gregory Walcott plays Bad Masterson and Malcolm Atterbury plays Buffalo Bill, but the biggest hero of all is one Pat Garrett, rendered by George Montgomery, and the No. 1 villain is just plain Cassidy, accomplished with real menace by Neville Brand.

"AUNTIE NAME" GOES ON
Will Continue through August 5. The noted English actress, Betty Sinclair, plays the feature role of Norah Muldoon in "Auntie Name," the Broadway comedy hit now playing, through August 3 at the Lambertville Music Circus. Sylvia Sidney stars in the production.

Miss Sinclair came to the United States to play the role of Violet in "The Winslow Boy," a part she played on Broadway for two years and on tour for an additional period of time. She has also appeared in "The Doctor's Dilemma" at the off-Broadway Phoenix Theater and has become a familiar figure to New York audiences.

Other members of the top-flight cast include Mark O'Daniels, ("Beau"), Shannon Dean ("Vera Charles"), Phil Arthur ("Lindsay"), Sidie Bond ("Agnes Gooch") Winifred Ainslee ("Sally Cain MacDougal").

Special matinee performances will be given Thursdays at 2:40 and Saturdays at 5 p.m. for the run of the show.

PRR ADDS TRAINS

Expresses for Commuters. When mid-summer timetable adjustments are made effective this Saturday, the Pennsylvania Railroad will inaugurate an additional express train in each direction between New York and Philadelphia during commuting hours. Both expresses are expected to aid a number of Princetonians who work in Philadelphia.

One of the new trains will leave New York at 7 a.m. (Daylight Time) Mondays through Fridays, reach Princeton Junction at 7:50 and arrive in Philadelphia at 8:30. The branch train connecting with this express will leave Princeton at 7:41 and return to its University Place station at 8:10. The present 7 o'clock "local" from New York will be changed to depart at 7:05.

The second express train added to the revised schedule will leave Philadelphia at 6:10 p.m., reach Princeton Junction at 7 and continue on to New York, where it will arrive at 7:55. To meet this train, which replaces the train currently leaving Trenton for New York at 6:45, the "dinky" will pull away from Princeton at 6:51 and get back at 7:07.

Minor changes in other train schedules will be made in the new schedules, according to N. L. Fleckenstein, the PRR's New York regional manager. Discrepancies between some present timetables and the operation of a few local trains will be ended, while service between New York and Bay Head Junction, via the New York and Long Beach Railroad, will now go into effect.

YMCA PROGRAM EXPANDS

Summer Schedule Set. Planned to run through August, the Princeton YMCA summer program includes many activities and sports for both adults and children ranging from baseball, tennis and swimming to a teen-age recreation club and neighborhood nights. For boys under 12, informal baseball teams are playing Monday, Wednesday and Friday mornings at 10:30 at the Princeton Country Day School with instruction given by the 7-11 age group Tuesdays at 10 on the school field. There is no fee for these activities and boys do not need to belong to either the Midget League or the YMCA.

The junior and senior tennis clubs are in full swing at 6:15 Mondays and Tuesdays, respectively, with both informal matches and supervised play provided. Boys from 12-16 are eligible for the junior club which plays on the Princeton High School courts and those over 16 play on the Church courts. YMCA membership is required but there is no other fee.

For boys from 6-12, swimming instruction is given by qualified YMCA personnel from 1 to 2 Monday through Thursday at Clarence A. Johnson's pool on Rosedale Road. The third session begins August 4 instructed by Robert Bredenberg, associate general secretary of the Princeton "Y," with the class limited to 15. YMCA membership is required.

For adults, the men's softball league meets Tuesdays at 6:15 on University Field and the art club convenes Wednesdays at 8 in the Witherspoon "Y" Building. There is a $10 charge which includes YMCA membership for the art classes, which run for eight weeks. For teen-age boys and girls the recreational club meets Mondays and Wednesdays at 7:30 with George G. Toole as advisor. Boys between 12 and 16 can participate in a skills group for games and crafts at 10:30 Thursdays at the Witherspoon "Y" and boys over 16 may learn the fundamentals of fencing from Stan Sjeja, Princeton University fencing coach. The cost for the fencing classes is YMCA membership and a reduced instructor's fee. Movies, softball and other games are being conducted on "neighborhood nights" Tuesdays and Thursdays at no charge. Those interested in family combat at the Central New Jersey YMCA camps in Blairtown should call the YMCA at WA 4-3630. The day camp will complete its six-week program August 1. Approximately 150 campers participated.

CHEMISTRY INSTITUTE

To Conclude July 30. Dr. John Turkevich, Eugene Higgins professor of chemistry, Princeton University, will be the speaker at the final seminar of the six-week Summer Institute in Chemistry being held at the University under the combined sponsorship of the New Jersey Department of Education and the University. The institute has enabled 40 chemistry teachers from New Jersey high schools to devote six weeks to classes, laboratory exercises, lectures and seminars. Dr. Turkevich, who has returned from a tour of the Soviet Union, will speak on "Some Impressions of a Scientist on a Recent Tour of Soviet Russia" Wednesday at 8 in the conference room of the Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs.

BRUNSWICK GOP'S MEET

Election Campaigns Opened. At a special meeting this week of the South Brunswick Regular Republican Club, Warren G. Parmenter of Deans officially opened his election campaign for the forthcoming vacancy on the Township committee, Abraham Dobin, Republican municipal chairman, outlined election plans and introduced the candidate who holds his degree in mechanical engineering from Ohio University and is associated with Walworth Co. in New York. Approximately 75 members and guests attended the meeting.

In presenting his platform, Mr. Parmenter stressed the following points: an equitable program of road maintenance; sufficient street lighting for safety of life and property; an active industrial commission to attract desirable industry to the community; more effective police protection; full township financial support for equipment for the volunteer fire companies and first aid squads; and a realistic budget without hidden costs and based on the overall needs of the township. He emphasized that these items were tailored to fit the urgent needs of South Brunswick voters regardless of political affiliation.

Mr. Parmenter concluded by stating that, if elected, he would "strive vigorously to protect the interests of all the township's taxpayers and to eliminate the external pressures and influences currently plaguing all township affairs." In addition to his activities in community affairs, he is an elder of the Dayton Presbyterian Church.

through Saturday, August 9. Arthur Sircorn will direct the Lexford Richards' play at the New Hope Theater.

The play tells the story of a young unmarried couple who have a serenely happy dramatic arrangement until the boy's parents decide it's time for their son to marry, preferably a society girl rather than the girl he loves.

After amusing complications, the young men finally discover that his parents have been happily married for years in spite of being in love.

The leading roles in "Dear Barbarians" will be carried by Robert Dowdell, Ann Lee, Patricia Smith, Alexander Clark and Susan Brown.

UNIVERSITY PLAYERS

"The Burnt Flower Bed" The current production at Murray Theater is the fourth of the nine that have been scheduled and this mid-stream offering is, in many ways, the best and most successful of the lot.

This American premiere will run through Saturday and it is recommended to theatre goers who like a play of ideas that does not stint on plot and tension. Ugo Betti, the Italian playwright, has built his political drama around the questions of responsibility, of belief and of

"Live Free For A Month"

Davidson's Supermarket, 172 Nassau Street, is launching a contest open to all in which the winner will "live free for a month." Complete details will be found on pages 16 and 17 of this issue of Town Topics.

Included as the prize will be a payment up to $75 against the winner's rent (or mortgage); $100 worth of food; payments against gas, electric, telephone and fuel bills; an installment on the family car and 80 gallons of gasoline; and a number of luxury items, even to the extent of a paid-up baby sitter.

reality and dreams. Lest this description frighten away some potential customers, let us say also that "The Burnt Flower Bed" has a plot that might have come out of Graham Greene's entertainments. Its sinister overtones grow more and more insistent until they finally break out in scenes that come close to melodrama.

The writing is taut, for the most part, and the play is not so verbose as one might expect from a drama of politics. Betti has written of a retired political leader and the men, who for reasons of their own they slowly become alarmingly clear, attempt to draw him back, quite literally, into the political light. Over this background is laid the question of a young man's death and the morbid effect it has had on his parents.

In this production, Jim Ambandon does the best directing of the season, keeping the interest sure and unflinching in a play that is unrelieved by humor. He has the cream of the company, and the small cast, Joseph Bird rises to the fore once again as the political leader, demonstrating that he is a versatile and thoroughly competent actor. Mario Siletti matches his performance in a role that calls for the formal manner he can do so well.

Chaire Frontman, carrying a leading role for the first time, has a taxing part as Luisa, the mother tortured by her son's death. She achieves considerable success in a highly emotional scene that might have been embarrassing in the hands of a less skillful performer. Ralph Williams puts on about 60 additional years to become a believable old revolutionary.

Scenery and costumes have been blended together to make a subdued study in grey, beige and brown. Jerry Railbourn and Dennis Williams have captured the sombre key of this drama in the grey stone of a castle and the receding colors of a dress or a coat.

If the Players can keep the level of direction and performance of "The Burnt Flower Bed" for the remaining five productions, the season may hold up better than the previous two productions seemed to indicate.

And from a first-night audience, thanks for a prompt $3.00 curtain.

Teen-Agers to Judge Teen-Agers
To the Editor of TOWN TOPICS:

There have been a number of letters published in the past few weeks, commenting on various phases of, and offering suggestions for possible solutions to the "teenage driving problem" in our community. I do not mean to make light of the situation by putting the phrase in quotes. I use them only to identify the topic which has been under discussion.

It has been suggested that a ban on driving to school and school activities might solve the problem. I can't see the logic behind this.

How many accidents have happened to school children while they have been driving to or from school? If a student is old enough to have a driver's license, and is allowed to drive the family car or own his own, there is nothing to prevent him from having an accident at some other time if he is unwilling to observe speed laws and a degree of caution.

Forbidden from driving to a school function, this same student and his friends might choose to skip those activities in favor of one permitting the use of a car. At least when they're at a school activity the parents know where they are.

The situation which has incited most adults who have found themselves in the vicinity of the high school at dismissal time, is not as much the traffic problem as it is the rudeness and complete lack of consideration shown by a seemingly large number of the students behind the wheel of their cars.

They seem to have one objective in mind: to get as far away from the school grounds as fast as they can, and wave behind him who gets in the way. As the case in so many things, the innocent must suffer. And so careful, considerate teen drivers must carry the burden of blame for their indifferent contemporaries.

It all seems to go back once more to the home. Those boys and girls who have received from their parents sound guidance in the principals of discipline, courtesy and good judgment carry these same principals into their every day lives. We cannot expect young people who have not been taught responsibility to suddenly acquire it on reaching their 17 birthday.

Perhaps we adults should be prepared to accept some of the burden of the misfortunes of the younger generation. Perhaps we have not always set a good example with our own driving behavior. As the old cliché says, "Monkey see, monkey do."

I have one suggestion to offer. Since young people seem to prefer to do their own disciplining, i.e. Student Council etc., why doesn't the school set up a mock traffic court? Any student who saw another break the laws of courtesy and consideration, to say nothing of the state laws, would report the offender to the court. The offending driver would be heard and if found guilty, reprimanded. To some it might be a joke, but to others it might be just enough to correct bad driving habits.

Why must it take a serious accident to shock a town into taking action on a problem that has existed for a long time?

RENWICK'S RENOVATED

New Marks for "Landmark."
"We chose the non-objective abstracts to depict various moods and the wide, wide world theme because we get so many visitors from all over the world," Harold Renwick, general manager of Renwick's Inc., explained this week. "No one will like it all, but I'm sure everyone will like some feature of Renwick's."

Mr. Ottroff was talking in flowing and glowing terms of the restaurant-coffee shop at 50 Nassau Street, "a Princeton landmark" which will now be bearing a number of new marks in time for breakfast next Monday morning ("open Mondays" is another new sign for Renwick's). During the past month, the popular dining establishment has undergone a complete renovation, the first full-scale refurbishing since Renwick's became a part of FMI's Palmer Square development in 1959.

Everything about Renwick's is brand-new, with exception of its familiar colonial frontage, but its two "non-objective abstracts" walls in four pastel colors and three different "wide, wide world" murals will no doubt attract immediate attention. So will the "glass-wick" back wall, a mirrored backdrop—the second ever installed in a U.S. restaurant—that gives the entire place a feeling of spaciousness.

Describing Renwick's "new look," designer Albert Pines of Elizabeth, said 500 square feet of mirror have been installed to give the effect of a wide restaurant. "By using two-tone wood and breaking them with two colors, by using subdued, down-lighting throughout, the interior of the restaurant and by using 70 lineal feet of hand-painted line drawings, we have provided a look that is both spacious and comfortable."

"Little Nigger, Little Better." For the sake of rapid service in breakfast and lunch and leisurely dining in the evening, a new coffee shop counter has been installed near the front door and a number of light new booths and tables have been installed in the back reaches of the restaurant. This new arrangement will increase Renwick's seating capacity from 125 to 200 and will permit easy facilities for large family groups as well as screened-off conference areas for groups up to 50. A fully modernized kitchen will also contribute to the service features, while a refrigerated display window—extending diagonally in a scan—will emphasize Renwick's "take-out" orders, part of an expanded catering service.

Harry L. Renwick, president (since 1950) of the corporation that has been a family trademark as well as "a Princeton landmark" since founded by his father, John B. Renwick, more than 60 years ago, said it is his hope that the renovated restaurant will offer Princetonians the "finest in eating and drinking." "It's a little bigger and a little better," he commented, "but our regular patrons will know it's Renwick's."

Renwick's has claimed a devoted following of Princetonians since 1897, when it was located a block to the east on Nassau Street. Since then, the place has been the scene of many a throw from the present address—and was famous as the site of the manufacture of ice cream in the country. Out-of-town visitors were attracted to the establishment due to its excellent reputation, plus the fact that it was an important halfway hitching post on the old horse-and-buggy road between New York and Philadelphia.

Throughout the early years of the Twentieth Century, Renwick's was a next-door neighbor to the old Nassau Tavern, also owned by the Renwick family in its early days. Both places were sites of significant political goings-on, and the fact of which the latter has a notable second-story balcony addressed by Theodore Roosevelt when he was campaigning vigorously for the "Bull Moose" Party's Presidential candidate.

IF YOU LIKE TOWN TOPICS, the best way to show your appreciation is to mention it to our advertisers.

MODERN DESIGN MAKES BIG DIFFERENCE: As Renwick's Inc. nears its re-opening date next Monday (see story this page), general manager Harold Ottroff (right) discusses final blueprint changes with Albert Pines, interior designer from Elizabeth. They are seated in one of numerous new booths in front of a part of an "American panorama" mural, one of three "wide world" drawings created for the completely-renovated restaurant by artist Willard Barow.

CONTEMPORARY HOME Features Electronic Kitchen. Realizing that a woman looks first at a kitchen when she enters a new house, Colin T. Lancaster, builder, and Jules Gregorich, architect, have incorporated into the kitchen of their new house a Hotpoint electronic cooking center.

The house has been built on Heather Lane, off the Great Road beyond Tenney, by the Babco Development Corporation, of which Mr. Lancaster is president. It is the first in a series of contemporary homes to be built by Babco. Asking price: $50,000.

Electronic cooking is done entirely without heat, and the cooking process is extremely fast. Hotpoint says that the electronic cooking time for bacon is 30 seconds; for apple pie, 12 minutes; for baked potato, four minutes; and for a 12-pound turkey, one hour. The food absorbs energy radiated by a magnetron tube and offers a resistance which cooks food evenly, thoroughly and quickly, without heating either the kitchen or the cooking utensil. The Babco house has been designed with long, sweeping lines, large areas of glass (one wall of the master bedroom is glass, and there are several sliding glass walls) and a car storage area large enough for more than one car plus turn-around space. There is a covered terrace from rear porch to front door. For further details and picture, see page 23.

BOWLING LANES BOUGHT

Lessons Become Owners. An announcement was made this week by David Burroughs, president of the club, that he and his wife, Lillian, have purchased the Princeton Recreation Center, 138 Nassau Street, from Princeton Municipality Improvement, Inc. The Burroughs, both good bowlers in their own right, leased the two-story, 12-lane bowling center from PMT for five years prior to this month's sale.

In addition to reporting the transaction—for an unreported figure—Mr. Burroughs said customers will notice two changes in the center when the regular kegging leagues begin their 1958-59 seasons (September 2). The building's front entrance will be newly constructed (by Tower Construction Co., of Fair Hardsburg, Co.) and will boast a handsome plastic sign in place of its present neon "action" sign—in the request of "Operation Nassau"—and the alleys will be equipped with new score benches.

Of historical interest, the old Arcade movie theatre became the Princeton Recreation Center exactly when it was agreed the premises could not be used for motion pictures for at least two months. Frederick A. Struve, owner of the building, was involved in the deal with PMT—Development Corporation—that gave the new owners sole possession. Mr. Burroughs observed this move will not be shown at 138 Nassau, even after the 20-year deadline.

GIFT SHOP SOLD

New Yorkers Buy On Square. Leonette and Leon Wald, proprietors of the Princeton Gift Shop, 19 Palmer Square West, for more than seven years, announced this week that they have sold the business to Katherine and Lawrence Volence, newcomers from Flushing, Long Island. No sum was disclosed for the transaction which took place a week ago.

Mr. Wald, supervising manager for Longchamps's Gift Shops in New York City before coming to Princeton, said he and his wife will remain here, though their future plans have not been formulated. For many years before their arrival in Princeton, Mrs. Wald served as a private secretary for a New York City mining engineer.

Mr. Volence, an automobile salesman in New York City until recently, said he and his wife bought the Princeton Gift Shop as a result of an advertisement in the New York Times and a desire to work together. Mrs. Volence has had experience working in various gift shops.

WESTERN ELECTRIC GROWS

New Staffers Total 12. Among those transferred are four supervisors: Robert V.

Automotive Casualty

Titus Motors, dealer for Pontiac cars in Princeton for many years, will suspend operations July 31, co-owner J. Russell Eldridge confirmed this week. Storey-Trent Pontiac, located at 224 West Hanover Street in Trenton and also operated by Mr. Eldridge, will honor all Pontiac warranties held by Princeton purchasers, as there will be no Pontiac agency here—and no Pontiac cars at the Titus premises, 19 Witherspoon Street.

"We were anxious to continue to serve our customers with a special agency or branch office in Princeton," Mr. Eldridge explained, "but the Eldridge family and I would not renew the Princeton franchise due to existing conditions." Mr. Eldridge has been supervising the operation of both the Trenton and Princeton dealerships ever since the death of his partner, Walter A. Titus, last December.

Edward G. Warren, sales manager for Titus Motors, will join the sales staff of Arthur J. Turner Motor Company, 255 Nassau Street, effective Aug. 1. As Mr. Warren's move is being planned, it was noted that Princeton has lost two General Motors franchises in less than a year. General Motors having gone out of business last fall.

Miner, Fred W. Turner, Martin J. Brown and Earl J. McLean.

Mr. Miner will be assistant superintendent in the materials and processes organization and will also be involved in research work on plastics and metallurgical problems. Mr. Turner is taking the position of assistant superintendent of the mechanical work in the mechanisms and devices organization. Both will make their homes in Trenton.

Mr. McLean will be in Mr. Turner's organization as a department chief for the work special automatic device manufacture with Albert Heinz, an electrical engineer and inventor, and Charles and Edward Eger, mechanical engineers, transferring to the organization. Richard J. Faine, a mechanical engineer from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology joining the group as a new employee. Joining Mr. Miner's organization as a department chief is Mr. Brown who has worked in the development engineering organization at the Chicago plant. He and his wife will live at 31 Markham Road.

In addition to Mr. Miner and Mr. Brown, the materials and processes organization has added Walter R. McCormack and Arthur J. Avile from another company plant. Ronald Zevon and Frank Cline, who transferred to the systems research organization with Salah Elmaghrabi, Eric Donardo, who received his bachelor's degree in electrical engineering from Princeton University, and Gordon E. Whitney from the computer laboratory at Princeton joining the data processing research group as new employees.

Donald S. Young and Allan S. Ginsberg are working in the sign-and-graph organization for the summer. The administrative staff has added Paul T. Bortell, a research supervisor; Theodore H. Stauderman, accountant; Carsten E. Paulsen, office service clerk; Mrs. Frances Rafalowksi, secretary; and Miss Patricia Lipiak, receptionist.

A CURIOUS QUESTION: The proposal that Princeton Township pass an ordinance restricting hunting and/or the use of firearms within its confines is about to come to a head (see box, this page). As a result, the pressing problem is the basis of TOWN TOPICS Question of the Week (see answers below). Here, reporter John Kris interviews Bertram L. Gulick Jr., a Township resident with thorough knowledge of the situation. (TOWN TOPICS Photo by Fred Porter)

Question of the Week

Question: Do you feel the Township committee should pass an ordinance restricting hunting and/or the use of firearms in Princeton Township?

Location: Around Princeton Township.

Mrs. Robert B. Heiserman, Jr., Rosedale Road, housewife: We have large woods behind the house and hunters are constantly stalking through the backyard. It's almost as if we were quarantined during hunting season. We don't dare let the dogs or the children outside. I don't have anything against hunting; it is a sport. It's just that last year a bullet bounced off the neighbor's house. Yes, we would favor such an ordinance.

Bertram L. Gulick Jr., 1082 Princeton-Kingston Road, real estate dealer, for twelve years a member of the Township Committee, farmer and life-long gunner: The Township already has an ordinance which makes gunning permissible wherever you have the owner's permission. This has worked for a good many years. Recently, however, out-of-town gunners have disregarded everybody's rights and even tell you to go to hell on your own property. I would leave the present ordinance as it is, but add measures to enforce it. The police commissioner should assign some special officers to patrol the two or three troublesome areas in the Township during the first two days of small game season and the first five days of deer season. This, I feel, would eliminate 90 percent of the trouble. The average Princeton gunner is very courteous and respects property owners' rights. I like to gun myself and wouldn't like to see boys denied the privilege that is one of the real liberties of this country.

Mrs. Elric G. Enderby, Province Line Road, housewife: I am definitely opposed to hunting in our part of the Township. I have two children aged 9 and 12. Once last fall, I felt obliged to call the police when three boys from Trenton shot a pheasant that landed in our compost heap, only to fire from the house. Then the boys shot another pheasant right under my eyes. More and more families with children are moving into this area, and yet even our cats are not safe outside during hunting season.

Richard G. Lamb, Province Line Road, accountant at ASCOP: There are some 17 children in the area where we live between Rosedale and Pretty Brook Roads. A few years ago, one of my Norwegian Elk hounds was shot in the leg by hunters and then deliberately shot in the head and killed. No effort was made to contact the owner. Another dog of mine was shot in the body and survived. The existence of such hunters will regrettably force some legal action to be taken. The public will not endure such dangers to families and to property to continue simply for the sake of sport.

Jack Weller, Herkottown Road, real estate dealer and firearms consultant, and Mrs. Cornelia Weller, real estate dealer: We realize fully the unpleasantness and possible danger of indiscriminate hunting in Princeton Township. Many licensed hunters have very badly. Most of them do not live in the Township, or even nearby. However, much of what we all object to is already illegal. . . . The penalties for breaking our hunting laws are neither severe enough, nor are convictions sufficiently frequent, to create respect for them. . . . We are concerned with a Township ordinance which would restrict and punish the innocent as well as the guilty. . . . A blanket prohibition of all shooting, or even all hunting, would be deplorable. Such a ban . . . would appear to infringe basic liberties and, in some instances, remove from some citizens' lives much happiness. . . . What might be expedient for us in our small community may be bad for the nation as a whole. It repeated often by other similar municipalities.

David A. McCabe, Herkottown Road, professor of economics emeritus, Princeton University: I would favor a Township ordinance restricting hunting and the use of firearms. My principal reason is that hunters today present a public danger in the more highly populated districts of the Township. I feel that some hunters are a definite menace and that the prohibition afforded by the state, which licenses them, is inadequate. I would allow property owners to hunt on their own property but not shoot within 100 feet of any other property or public road. I would also permit the use of firearms on target ranges and skeet shooting under conditions approved by the police department. I would allow owners to exterminate pests under conditions laid down by the police.

Mrs. Claire Levine, 3 Dorran Avenue, liquor store proprietor: I feel very strongly that we should have such an ordinance. The Township is no longer what you would call a rural area; we are rapidly becoming urbanized. Hunting no longer has any place there. It is high time that children and innocent bystanders should be protected. There is a terrible problem here. Hunters are shooting up in your back yard. Dogs are shot continually and windows shattered. And most of the hunters, one can tell from the license plates on parked cars on the side of the road, are not local residents. Hunting and the dangers that go with it prevent this from being the country atmosphere for small children that it should be.

Summer Aides Begin Work. Ten girls, bent on careers in nursing, are serving Princeton Hospital during July and August as summer nurses' aides.

The special program, which has been in operation for several years, benefits both the hospital and the girls who serve. Miss Mollie O. Hall, director of nurses, has designed the program for girls who are planning on professional careers in nursing or allied fields. They have received 40 hours of training from Mrs. Madeline Baker, instructor of aides, and they are now working on the floors under the direct supervision of graduate nurses.

The girls have varied career plans. Miss Helen Sweeney, daughter of Mrs. Sarah Sweeney of the hospital's nursing staff, will enter St. Peter's School of Nursing in New Brunswick this fall. She is a recent graduate of Princeton High School.

Miss Juliana S. Cuyler, graduate of Wellesley College, is a student at the Cooper Union School of Art. Miss Cuyler plans a career in art therapy and feels that her summer hospital work will help her to understand the problems of the sick and convalescent.

Four aides, all Princeton High School graduates, will enter nursing schools this fall. They are the Misses Ruth H. Nicoll, who is attending Queens University, Kingston, Ontario; Margaret A. Thompson, Anne L. Dugan and Tina Strode. Miss Strode, who lives in Cranbury, will enter Orange Memorial's School of Nursing.

Other aides are the Misses Elizabeth Van Winkle, whose mother, Mrs. Walton Van Winkle is a Red Cross Nurses' Aide at the hospital; Hildegarde Hans of Monmouth Junction, a graduate of St. Peter's High School, New Brunswick; Patricia Ferguson, who is studying to become a licensed practical nurse at Woodbridge Vocational and Technical High School and Patricia A. Darlea of Hightstown, Miss Darlea, who plans to enter Jersey City Medical Center's School of Nursing this fall, also served last year as a special summer aide at Princeton hospital.

DONKEY BASEBALL SET

New Date Scheduled. Princeton's "men in blue" of both the Borough and the Township will meet the Princeton Lions Club in "donkey baseball" this Thursday at 8 on the Princeton High school field. The police youth program will benefit from the event.

The game, originally planned for July 8, was postponed by rain. Tickets for the first date will be honored this Thursday. Norton Jefferson, Lions Club member, is chairman.

MUSIC SESSIONS ENDING

With concert Wednesday, The Princeton High School summer music program will conclude next Wednesday with a concert in the high school auditorium at 8. The school's seventh season was marked by a record enrollment of students from Princeton and the surrounding area.

The concert, which will open to the public, will include performances by the choir, orchestra, band and small ensembles. Sylvan Friedman and Thomas Hilbish are directors of the school.

HUN BOARD ELECTS

Trustees Named. The Hun School has elected Fred. M. Blaicher, president of Princeton Municipal Improvement, to a three-year membership on its board of trustees. Appointed to replace Mr. Blaicher as business manager is Mrs. La Von Warner of Levittown, Pa., who joined the administrative staff last April. Mr. Blaicher will continue as treasurer, a post he has held for the last four years.

George Strawbridge and Clement V. Conole were re-elected to the board for three-year terms. Mr. Conole, who lives at 59 Woodland Drive, has been a trustee since 1954 and Mr. Strawbridge is chairman of the school's development program committee.

With Mr. Blaicher's election, membership of the school's board of trustees was expanded to 13. Dr. Harold W. Dodds was named for a three-year term in April and the two other Princeton residents on the board are Minot G. Morgan and Howard W. Stepp.

AFS SELECTS STUDENT

Belgium Will Be Host. The American Field Service has announced that Susan Craig will join three other Princeton students as part of the Service's student exchange program for this year. A senior at Princeton High School, she will leave next month for Belgium where she will attend school for the first half of the coming academic year. She is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Gordon Craig, 89 Mercer Street.

Others participating in the exchange program are Deborah Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Blackwell Smith, 500 Mercer Road, who is a senior at Miss Fine's School and Blake Smith, son of Dr. and Mrs. Dewitt Smith, Drakes Corner Road, e Princeton High School senior.

Report from THE MAYOR

Friday Open House. This week's "Tell It to the Mayor!" session will be held at Borough Hall on Friday evening from 7 to 10 p.m. No appointment is ever necessary and no one is welcome to drop by to share views or to ask questions. Last week's session brought some real problems that may require help from outside the Borough government, but the community has always been ready to cooperate when a need is demonstrated.

Library Fans. The circulation figures at the Public Library continue sharply as proof that our library has many fans, even in the hot summer months. The circulation of air, however, has been a real problem; and fans of another type seem necessary. Last week the Borough Engineering department got together with the Library staff and board to work out some improvements in ventilation. It is hoped to make the building more comfortable for the public as well as for the staff who must spend the hot summer days there.

Signs of the Times. The year 1958 may be remembered as a year when Princeton took time to study its street names and to do legal research to fix them. Residents of Morven "Place" are understandably disturbed at learning that official Borough records label it as Morven Street.

Borough Attorney John F. McCarthy, Jr. is checking out the deeds and other records. If it appears that Morven "Place" is carried there, he will prepare an ordinance or resolution to get official Council blessing for the name. The same question has been raised about Olden Street which has had signs designating it as Olden "Avenue" for many years.

Without a Quorum. Because of illness and absences, the Council was unable to muster a quorum for its special meeting on park-

'Y' CAMP TO OPEN SEASON
Opportunity for Boys and Girls. Boys from all over central New Jersey are getting a taste of camping and outdoor life at the Central New Jersey YMCA camp in the northern part of this state, four miles from Blairstown. The site adjoins the Princeton University Summer Camp. Boys usually spend two weeks at the camp. According to Ralph S. Mason, of Overbrook Drive, president of the camp's board of trustees, there are still a few vacancies for youngsters in the period July 27 to August 9. The full quota of the camp is 150.

The period from August 10 to August 23 has been reserved for girls. Advance registrations indicate that the girls are as determined as their brothers to take advantage of this camping experience.

The camp will be turned over to family groups from August 30 to September 1, Labor Day weekend. The staff will be retained and a special program arranged for the families who will live as units in the respective cabins.

ing last Friday morning. Those on hand, however, joined the Mayor and members of the Borough staff in an on-site tour of the business section on the east end of Nassau Street. First hand information was gained from the physical inspection of the area as well as from talking with residents and business men directly affected by the traffic and parking problems between Olden and Murray Place.

Decision Due. The Mayor hopes to meet soon with Councilman Coyle's Committee on the Future of Princeton to review the various suggestions for use of the Witherspoon building which will revert to Borough management when the "Y" moves to its new home on Avalon Place. Many worthwhile ideas have been advanced from community groups and any other proposals should be sent promptly to Borough Hall for consideration by the committee.

A Busy Summer. There have been many comments about the fact that Princeton seems busier than in any previous summer. Certainly the Mayor and Council can testify to the fact that problems do not disappear during the July and August heat. But there are lots of dividends, too — the fun of outings with the volunteer fire companies, the extra chance to tour the town with summer visitors, the pleasures of outdoor eating, and of walking by well-kept lawns and gardens all over town.

FOOTBALL OUTLOOK—II

(This is the second of a series of four articles on Princeton's football prospects for the 1958 season.)

Sophomore Strength Evaluated. Two falls ago, Princeton's Class of 1960 gave the University its first unbeaten freshman football team in a dozen years. When its able members came up to varsity ranks, they joined juniors and seniors who had missed out on the Big Three and Ivy titles by losing their last two games to Yale and Dartmouth and who were not with two or three notable exceptions—very far above average in their overall ability. In short, there were positions open to all at several spots on the team. Last November, however, when the climactic games against Yale and Dartmouth were played, only two sophomores started both of them.

The answer, obviously, is that sophomore domination of a varsity good enough to make a run for first place in its league is a complete football rarity. No one can deny that the sparkling play of Den Sachs in the Dartmouth game (three touchdowns, one on a 40-yard interception and another on a 60-yard punt return), or the trio of line-busting reverses that Mike Ippolito converted into many touchdowns against Harvard, were contributions without which the Ivy title could not have been won. But the blocking and faking of Jack Sapock and Fred Tiley, plus the work of the veteran line up front, were absolute requisites to Sachs' and Ippolito's more spectacular successes.

Sophomore strength is essential as depth, and it was lack of good first-year men on the varsity that cost the Tigers games from 1953 through '56 when the first-line players tired or were benched by injuries. If Jim Stansbury at end and Frank Svetecz at center were the only two sophomores to start against Yale and Dartmouth last season, it was the ability to field reserves such as Sachs and Ippolito and, in the line, Ed Kostelnik, Mike Conway, Frank Schultz, Bob Fisher and Art Mack that helped carry the Tigers to the top of the heap.

Class of '61 Also Unbeaten. Off the football axiom that if you have two good freshman teams back to back, your varsity is likely to be a pretty sound ball club, Princeton football fortunes are

WE Congratulate

JAKE MCCANDLESS

Freshman Football Coach

Turning a group of able cricket players into a winning baseball team in a few short months is undoubtedly something more of an assignment than a coach could handle. The problem, however, would be of the same nature as those confronting Princeton's coach of freshman football each fall. This week, the University announced that one of its most dependable players of the past decade, Joey L. "Jake" McCandless, will fill the position in September. What the former Tiger tailback (1948-50) must do each year is create a single-wing football team out of players who have, almost to the man, never known anything but the "T" version of the sport.

Figures are unavailable on what percentage of the nation's high and preparatory schools use the T, as opposed to the single wing, but virtually any estimate as high as 95% would not be an exaggeration. Jack Sapock, captain of the 1957 Ivy champions, was a distinct rarity when he reported to the late Matt Davidson in September, 1954, in that he had been a single-wing guard at Allentown (Pa.) high school. Teammate Tom Morris, who hailed from Ohio, was another, but they are few and far between.

McCandless will have no basic advantage over a theoretical baseball coach converting cricket players in that the rules and the dimensions of the field are obviously identical for both T and single-wing football. But he'll be lucky if he finds a center who has been accustomed to snapping the ball on anything but a kick; he must teach his linemen power blocks rather than the brush variety used by the quick-opening T; and he'll need to begin virtually from scratch in giving his backfield new assignments. Most important of all, he must teach a quarterback (who will almost never run or pass the ball, as in the "T") how to provide scythe-like blocking and what is involved in the intricate field generalship of the single wing.

Coming here from the Kent School, where his teams liked the single wing so much that they lost only one game in three years, the 28-year-old McCandless has a versatile three-sport record that speaks well for his success here. As the coach who will have the initial influence on players whom Princeton hopes will keep its teams in the thick of Ivy League races, McCandless is a excellent addition to the Tiger coaching staff.

relatively solid shape. The Class of '61 was the only unbeaten freshman eleven among the Ivies, turning back Columbia, 26-0; Pennsylvania, 14-12; Colgate, 14-6; and Harvard, 13-7, before rallying to tie a strong Yale outfit, 14-14. The game with Rutgers was cancelled by Asian flu among the Scarlet squad.

Even in recent years, however, when Princeton has not had a varsity good enough to defend the Ivy championship, sophomores haven't had much luck in winning a starting berth. Jack Sapock and Fred Tiley, captains this year and last, achieved such status. Last year, Stansbury, Svetecz and Ippolito started against Rutgers; this season, the only likely bet for a place on the field at the opening whistle is big Mike Iseman, who has the ability to land the wingback slot vacated by Ippolito's conversion to quarterback.

By positions, 11 members of the Class of 1961—actually, a complete football team save for the fact that they include two centers and only one tackle—have been singled out as somewhat above their teammates in ability. At Blairstown, some will not develop as quickly as others, while one or two currently unlisted may surprise pleasantly. This is the run-down:

Ends.—Jim Blair and Gary Trout. Both tall and solid (Trout at 6-2 and 205 is the biggest on the squad), they will join five juniors and a senior with varying degrees of experience to give the Tigers more depth at these positions than they have had in a long time. Trout is an exceptionally good punter, a coach's dream in that the booming boos he gets off for upwards of 50 yards are so high that they give linemen plenty of time to cover. Limited substitutions, of course, will prevent his use in this capacity with any degree of frequency when not already in the lineup.

Tackle.—The surplus of guard-backs on his 1958 squad has allowed Dick Colman to switch 195-16, Clark Woolley from a reserve status in the backfield to tackle, where graduation hit harder than elsewhere. Woolley lacks experience but will add depth as he learns.

Guards.—Stan Baldwin and Bill Morse, at 196 and 266, both have held down this spot for the Tigers. Morse was a tackle last fall, but—both starting guard-graduated and he will be assigned to a reserve spot on the weakside of the single-wing line.

Center.—Jerry Sullivan, who saw action at fullback as a freshman but also was a lineman under Jake McCandless (see "We en a shot at the quarterhack herh vacated by Jack Sapoch, bringing both defensive and blocking ability to the post, plus the renewal asset of three years of single-wing football in high school. Sullivan, light at 176 but fast and the best freshman passer, will not displace Sachs or senior Johnny Heyd at tailback but should come along to give the Tigers better than average depth at this key position in the single-wing pattern.

Considerably more so than last year, a number of the starting assignments for the 1958 season appear clinched by varsity hold-overs off their ability of a year ago. There have, however, already been several important position switches that have been planned to keep the Ivy trophy in Bullion Gymnasium.

Varsity reserves will battle the Class of 1961 for the few regular berths that are in doubt. Next week's report, third in the current series, will picture the possible starting lineup, together with the top two replacements at each position.

British Open Champion, in 1932, he won more points on the Ryder Cup team than any other player. He was senior champion in 1951 as well as world's champion and senior champion in 1958.

of what can be expected from regional planners in future years.

Located on the corner of Bear Tavern and Nursery Roads, in West Trenton, on the site of the old Mercer County Airport, the 18-hole layout is 6,706 yards in length. Par is 71 for the course that spreads out over 185 acres.

There is, in addition, a large practice fairway and a practice green. A second practice green will soon be added. Trees average 100 feet in length and 30 to 50 feet in width.

The course will be open to the public on a pay-as-you-go basis. Greens fees for weekdays are set at $1.50, while the cost for weekends and holidays is $2.50. Lockers and golf carts can be rented at a small cost. The rate schedule for the remainder of 1958 is still on a trial basis, according to Freeholder Richard J. Coffee, county recreation director. A permanent schedule will be adopted next year.

Ferrara is Pro. Mr. Coffee declared that the county's plan in setting fees was to maintain "popular prices" and at the same time to keep receipts at a level where they will pay the operating costs of the course. Lawrence P. (Skip) Ferrara, Jr., of 42 Jefferson Road has been named professional of the new course. He will supervise the pro shop and its related activities.

Buildings at the Mountain View Golf Club in addition to the pro shop include a large two-story Colonial clubhouse, a garage, workshop and storage sheds for maintenance equipment. Many of the buildings already on the grounds were adapted to new uses and modeled at a cost of about $37,000.

The clubhouse has two large lounge rooms downstairs, one with a snack bar and the other with an open fireplace. Also on the first floor are small sitting rooms and men's locker and shower rooms. Women's lockers and showers are on the second floor.

Serves as a "Green Belt." The new course is built within a protective zone surrounding the present Mercer County Airport. The links thus serve a double function, and county planners have zoned the area to be free of residential and business prop-

The cost of building the actual course was approximately $95,000. Mr. Coffee pointed out that this was about half the standard cost of constructing golf courses at today's prices. Under average conditions, builders generally estimate $10,000 a hole, or at least $180,000 for a standard course, exclusive of the value of the land.

An extensive system for watering turf involved the expenditure of an additional $22,000. This included the construction of a three-acre lake as an auxiliary water supply.

30,000 Rounds a Year. Confident that the new course will be popular with golfers in this area, Mr. Coffee and Vincent D. Girard, county recreation supervisor, anticipated that at least 15,000 rounds of golf will be played at Mountain View during the remainder of the 1958 playing season. And during the first full year of operation, at least 30,000 rounds will be played.

At the existing fee schedule, total revenue should pay for the annual operating cost of $10,000. Eventually the entire capital investment should be recovered.

This will allow the county recreation department to advance other projects of public recreation to completion. A 200-acre county park adjoining the golf course with picnic grounds, play fields, tennis courts and water areas is the next major step.

Obituaries

Saxe Commias, 66, of 85 Elm Road died July 17 of a heart attack at Princeton Hospital. Editor of the American Nobel prize-winning authors, William Faulkner, Sinclair Lewis and Eugene O'Neill, he had been senior editor of Random House since 1938. Other writers with whom he worked closely included Sherwood Anderson, James Michener, Theodore Dreiser, Budd Schulberg, Robinson Jeffers, W. H. Auden and Walter Van Tilburg Clark.

Mr. Commias was primarily responsible for the exhibition of Faulkner's works which were on display in the Princeton University library for four months in 1959. In addition, he made it possible for the author to complete a large portion of one of his works here and to deposit in the library a collection of manuscripts valued at $500,000. Among the books he had written were "The Public Papers of Franklin Delano Roosevelt" and the "Basic Writings of Robert Louis Stevenson."

A native of Rochester, N. Y., Mr. Commias graduated from the University of Pennsylvania in 1913 and had lived in Princeton since 1930. His many achievements as an editor was the direction of the Modern Library, a division of Random House, which is well known as a pioneering effort in the field of general education. On the occasion of the funeral at Princeton, he was named "Man of the Week" by TOWN TOPICS.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Dorothy Berliner Commias, a concert pianist; a son, Eugene Commias, a physicist at Columbia University; a daughter, Mrs. Francis Bennett of Hamden, Conn.; two grandchildren, an internment was at a private cemetery of the family.

Mrs. Eva Hannum McLain, widow of Dr. Harry McLain, died July 13 at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Clarence M. Todd of Ventnor; a sister, Mrs. Flora J. Burgess; three grandchildren and three great-grandchildren. The service was held at the Mathew Funeral Home with the Rev. Charles Markier of the Princeton Methodist Church officiating. Interment was in Union Cemetery, Mays Landing.

Dr. Theodore E. Mommsen, 53, professor of medieval history at Princeton University from 1945-1954 died July 18 at Ithaca, N.Y. where he was teaching at Cornell University. The medical examiner listed his death as suicide from an overdose of barbiturates.

Grandson of the German historian, Theodor Mommsen, and a nephew of the German sociologist, Max Weber, he studied at the Universities of Heidelberg and Vienna and received a doctor of philosophy degree from the University of Berlin. Since 1938 he taught at Johns Hopkins and Yale Universities and Grotto School as well as at Princeton and Cornell. He is survived by two brothers, a sister, all of Germany.

Mrs. Della Phillips of 144 Witherspoon Street died July 16 at Princeton Hospital. She had lived here nine years and was employed by Princeton University. She is survived by her husband, Robert Phillips; a son, Andrew Phillips; six sisters; two brothers and five grandchildren. The funeral and interment took place in Goldsboro, N.C.

Richard E. Pasciullo of Prospect Street, Kingston, died July 22 at his home. He had for a number of years operated a shoe repair service at 102 Nassau Street, the rear of Zinder's Stationery Store.

Born in Italy, Mr. Pasciullo came to the United States as a young man and had become a naturalized citizen. He belonged to St. Paul's Church and was an associate member of the Kingston Fire Company.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Celestine Laborde Pasciullo; two daughters, Mrs. Henry Fortner —Continued on Page 22

PAC Needs Support

Making its first appeal for financial support in three seasons, the Princeton Athletic Club is asking for $10,000 to meet current expenses. Major items necessitating the drive are new uniforms (which will last another two seasons) and insurance, as well as bats, balls and catching equipment.

The team is currently leading the Tri-County League and may be seen in action on Brookview Field each Friday at 6:15. It is backed in the belief that baseball, the national pastime, has a place in this community every summer. Those agreeing are asked to send checks to the Princeton Athletic Club, c/o B. J. Bergesen, Jr., 183 Nassau Street.

SOFTBALL RIDDLE

Wins, losses uneven. In an effort to clarify the standings of a most confusing Princeton Community Softball League—a loop hampered to date by rainouts, protested decisions and unreported results—TOWN TOPICS this week contacted each of the league's eight managers before Tuesday evening's contests. The managers gave the won-lost record of their respective teams and the information definitely indicated which clubs belong in which division but, unfortunately, the total figures failed to tally. They showed eight more PCSL victories than losses.

Based on the managers' own records, plus the results of Tuesday's four scuffles, the standings shape up as follows: Sannino's (12-4), Cenerino's A.C. (14-5), Italian-American Sportsmen (11-5), Nassau Social Club (14-7), Town Topics (8-12), Drake's (8-12), ASCOP (5-14), and the Princeton Orioles (4-14). But, since the total wins outweigh the total losses by an 80 to 12 ratio, the managers must do some juggling and re-considering in order to produce an honest rundown. Otherwise it's going to be impossible for anyone to know which teams remain in contention for or out of the 1958 flag.

Without question, the circuit's three front-running outfits improved their positions this past week. Sannino's gained the most ground by edging Town Topics, 5-4, last Thursday, blanking NSC, 1-0, in a make-up tussle last Friday and shading Drake's, 5-4, this Tuesday. Lou DiMeglio hurled all three victories, earning him an exalted spot among the league's pitchers. Cenerino's and the Sportsmen each took pair of verdicts, the former blasting Drake's, 14-1, last Thursday and ASCOP, 12-2, this Tuesday while the Sportsmen were topping the Orioles, 10-2, last Thursday and NSC, 2-0, this Tuesday.

As a result of the latest developments, NSC fell from the top of the heap, fourth place. Only a 3-1 decision over ASCOP last Thursday, before its defeats in the ensuing two games, kept NSC from falling dangerously far behind the top contenders. In the only other struggle of the week—a sloppy affair that featured nine errors by the cellar-dwelling Orioles—Town Topics stopped the Birds, 14-7.

RAIN DELAYS "CLINCHERS"
Unbeaten PAC Must Wait. That all-too-familiar nemesis, rain, prevented teams of the Tri-County Baseball League from playing scheduled games Tuesday evening and, as a result, the Princeton Athletic Club must wait while longer to wrap up the 1958 pennant. Still unbeaten in nine tries, the local entry will shoot for No. 10 in Brookview Field at 6:15 p.m. this Friday, and it will be an important match inasmuch as runner-up South Brunswick, only other team still within striking distance, will afford the opposition.

Should the PAC knock off South Brunswick this week, inflicting the visitors' fourth defeat, there should be little doubt about the final outcome of the flag race. In fact, the County situation a lot more interesting by stopping Princeton's streak. Then, the nine rained-out contests that must be worked into the schedule somewhere would appear worthwhile.

The PAC won with relative ease last Friday against Montgomery Township, 7-1, and South Brunswick made its task look a bit heavier on Monday by losing to Sonnyville, 11-3. In the Princeton game, Charlie Perpetuo pitched his second victory of the campaign and Bob Montgomery once again supplied the biggest blow of all, a ground rule double on a ball that wound up in Brookview's right field fence. The Tri-County standings:

| | | |
|-----------------|---|---|
| Princeton A.C. | 9 | 0 |
| South Brunswick | 8 | 3 |
| Montgomery | 7 | 7 |
| Sonnyville | 3 | 8 |
| Howeview | 2 | 7 |

BOWERS HOLDS LEAD

Junior Games Close. The L.C. Bowers club maintained its lead in the Princeton Junior Baseball League this past week, but a real race began taking shape as Nassau Oil, pennant-winner in 1956 and 1957, defeated the first-place team, then got "surprised" by Matthews, No. 3, nine in the current standings. The Oilers edged Bowers, 2-1, and lost to Matthews, 8-3.

Beating Nassau Oil proved no mean trick, so Matthews earned the top spot in the standings. John Rogerson, a promising freshman pitcher at Princeton High last spring, continued to impress on the mound for the winning club, while Jack Lackey, PH's leading variety hurler in his career, tossed a big strike for Matthews, collecting three straight hits, one with the bases loaded.

The Oilers' narrow victory over Bowers came after the tightest contest of the season to date. Huh School's baseball captain-elect Tommy Petrone tossed the win, fanning a dozen opponents with his sidewinding delivery, and also knocked in the decisive marker. Bruce Sandvik again paced Bowers at the plate, with pitcher George Olsen dropping the "rough one to lose."

In the third game of the week, another hair-raiser, Bowers shaded the Palmetto's Benevolent Association entry, 10-9. Thus, as action began this week, the Junior League standings were as follows:

| | | | | |
|--------------|---|---|---|------|
| Bowers | W | L | T | Pts. |
| Nassau Oil | 2 | 1 | 0 | 11 |
| Matthews | 1 | 0 | 0 | 6 |
| FBA (Police) | 0 | 2 | 1 | 5 |

MIXED DOUBLES DEBUT
Slowed by Rain, Delayed by rain as the week began, the Community Mixed Doubles Tennis Tournament started with 16 teams entered. Top-seeded were Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Smoyer (finalists a year ago) and Mr. and Mrs. Martin Katz.

Mr. Doubles will follow, as soon as the present tournament is over, with entries still being accepted at the YMCA (WA 4-1849). Jack Ferns and Don Mayhew were the 1967 champions, with H. Yale Tyler and Bill Bowen runner-up. Bowers runner-up, Mrs. Betty Constable took the Women's Singles title for the fourth time in the last eight years, defeating Mrs. Barbara Smoyer, also a former champion, in two sets. News Of The CHURCHES

KNOW YOUR PASTOR (Truth in a Series)

Meet Dr. Parker. He did not want to be a minister. From the time he was a young man, he fought the idea of the ministry. Expressed by the obstacles and frustrations of the calling, he rejected it totally and forcefully, although he carried his Bible with him on his travels and read from it daily.

"It was medicine that really called me," recalls the pastor. "I read all the medical books. I could find as a child, and as I couldn't find in books, I found out from my family doctor."

By the time he was in his teens, William Parker had a small, lay practice of his own and had gained considerable reputation around Thomaston, Georgia, as a diagnostician. "Some kind of insight enabled me to tell what was wrong with a sick person just by talking to him," Dr. Parker says. During these years, the farm boy had no formal schooling at all—"about three months' worth,"—but he saved his money and at the age of 20 he enrolled in the first grade.

The first school he entered "had too much religion" so he left and, following through the grades, eventually entered Georgia State College in Savannah.

"The Hound of Heaven." Still the intention was to be a doctor. The ministry was something to be fought. During the school years and summer vacations, William Parker worked in the Pullman service ("All the way to Mexico and up to Canada") and as a mess boy on a passenger train.

It was while he was lying in his bunk on a boat one summer that the lines from "The Hound of Heaven" came suddenly to his mind: "Necessity is laid upon me—use it unto me, if I perchance not the Good!"

He began to preach as a freshman at Georgia State, was ordained after graduation and went immediately, in September, 1917, to Colgate University where he remained for three years, receiving his Master of Arts in 1920. From Colgate, the ministerial path led to pastorates in New York state, then in Rutherford, New Jersey and finally to the First Baptist Church in Princeton in which he came 28 years ago this August.

From first grade, Dr. Parker has launched his own education, "never receiving a dime from anybody." The grandson of a slave, he knew poverty and, as a few people have living quite literally off a crust of bread and a drink of water.

"When young people ask my advice about going into the ministry, I always say 'Can you stay out' and then I say 'If you can stay out, do. But if you're called of God, you've got to go.'"

"It's the teaching I like to go," says the minister. Dr. Parker explains, "preaching is good, too, but I like personal contact with the people in my church. I want to know every single member of my church—his work, his home, his thoughts about life. In this way, I can serve my people best."

His work as teacher has led Dr. Parker into the broader fields of religious education. For 25 years he served as director of religious education for the New Jersey State Baptist Convention and the General Baptist State Convention. His course of study was given an "A" rating by the International Conference of Religious Education. The New Jersey Baptist Assembly is the organization.

A GARDEN IS A GOOD PLACE. For true recreation and relaxation, Dr. William T. Parker turns to his garden. He has a man-made one on the outskirts of Princeton where he digs and hoes and takes care of the chickens and does not miss the jangling telephone at all. Here, he examines a rash in the garden behind his Green Street parsonage. "They're really Mrs. Parker's roses," he says. "She's the real gardener in the family." (Town Topics Photo by H. Chuchowski) ly assembly among negroes to have this "A" rating.

Down on the Farm. The church on John Street is one of Princeton's largest, with over 500 members. Its demands are many, and Dr. Parker has made a retreat for himself a small "farm" on lower Alexander Street where he and Mrs. Parker can work in peace in their garden, away from the telephone and the pressures of a pastor's study.

Here the Parker's have chickens—500 of them—and a garden of flowers and vegetables. "It's the most relaxing place I know," says the veteran pastor, "for both my wife and me. After all, a minister's wife does a lot of work, but mine is particularly good at getting people to 'warm up' spiritually."

At present the pastor and congregation of the First Baptist Church are pre-occupied with Urban Renewal and what it means to their church building. When this problem is settled, Dr. Parker hopes to start a religious education addition to his mortgage-free church so he can expand his life of preaching, teaching and service.

Miss Doris Pasciullo of Kingston; a sister and a brother. Requiem high mass will be celebrated Thursday at 9:30 at St. Paul's Church, with burial in the parish cemetery under direction of The Mather Funeral Home.

Charles Prohacek, 78, of Cranford, died at 16 a.m. Sunday at the Princeton Hospital. Born in Manalapan, he was a prominent potato farmer in Cranbury until his retirement several years ago. A past master of the Hightstown Grange, he had served on the Mercer County and New Jersey Boards of Agriculture.

His survivors include his wife, Mrs. Helen Walker Prohacek; a son, John T. Prohacek; five daughters, Mrs. Charles F. Hunt, Mrs. William D. Clayton, Mrs. Leslie S. Applegate, Mrs. Stanley Pine and Mrs. George L. Tindall; 20 grandchildren and 100 nieces and nephews. The funeral was held in Cranbury with the Rev. Frederick Moll Jr. of Freehold officiating. Interment was in Cedar Hill Cemetery, Hightstown.

Mrs. Elizabeth S. Sekva of 287 Nassau Street died July 20 at her home. She is survived by two daughters, including Miss Ludmila Sekva of Princeton, a son and a brother. She was the widow of Josef Sekva.

The service and interment were at the convenience of the family.

J. Norford Stillwell, 86, of 22 Nassau Street died at his home after a lengthy illness. Last survivor of the five children of the late Symmes H. Stillwell and Matilda Warren, Norford Stillwell, he had retired from the building business established by his father in the 1870's.

A lifelong resident of Princeton, he was a past president of the Revolutionary War Centennial Society of Princeton Lodge 38, F & AM; a member of the Princeton Shrine Club, the present Temple of Trenton and the Princeton Historical Society; and a former deacon of the First Presbyterian Church. A charter member of the Princeton Savings & Loan Association, he was a director of the organization for over 40 years.

The funeral was held at his home with the Rev. George E. Mair of the First Presbyterian Church officiating, assisted by the Rev. Dr. Charles R. Edwards. Interment was in Princeton Cemetery under the direction of the Mather Funeral Home.

ANNOUNCING

The first of a series of contemporary homes to be built by Colin T. Lancaster, as designed by Jules Gregory, architect.

This striking contemporary house has been designed so that it needs only the barest minimum in maintenance, yet it has all the dramatic features that buyers expect in advanced contemporary styling. The exterior is glass, masonry and pine, the wood pressure-treated with creosote so that you never need to touch it with a paint brush. A sliding glass wall separates a formal dining room from the informal patio and its barbecue, and there's an all-purpose family room close to the kitchen for convenient late snacks. In addition, these attractive features:

- Eighteen-foot cathedral ceiling living room
- Stacked brick fireplace
- Car-port with turn-around
- Enclosed storage for garden tools
- Hotpoint kitchen
- Balcony-effect master bedroom, 3 others
- Two ceramic tile baths, one powder room
- Walk-in master bedroom closet

Asking $50,000

"The great day will be when we move in"...

This was the comment of one of our home-buyers, pleased with everything he saw at Shady Brook Estates in Princeton. It is a feeling shared by more and more people as word about this carefully-planned community and its 8 room, 3 bath individually-designed residences is passed on to discerning home-seekers.

BUILT ON 3/4 ACRE GROUNDS OR LARGER,
HERE IS A GLIMPSE OF THE LAYOUT AND FEATURES:

GROUND LEVEL: Gracious foyer with guest closet. 20 ft. finished recreation room with fireplace opening on patio in rear — a study or den (or bedroom if you choose) and full bath. Patio with barbecue.

FIRST FLOOR LEVEL: 24 ft. living room with bay window. Full dining room with archway. Spacious attractive up-to-the-minute kitchen with built-in wall oven, counter-top range, dishwasher and Formica top cabinets.

The surroundings, overlooking Lake Carnegie, reflect the finest values in present-day living. Privacy, dignity, quiet, elegance without ostentation. And the homes are set into this lovely background with an unerring eye for handsome contrasts and appearance.

SECOND LEVEL: Huge master bedroom with walk-in closet. Two other twin-sized bedrooms and 2 complete baths.

CHOICE OF EXTERIOR: STONE OR BRICK FRONT!
